Thanksgiving Day

Standing Rock

This Thanksgiving as we think about gratitude and the history of this holiday, please keep in mind the long-standing protest of the Sioux tribe at Standing Rock.

They are not just standing for their lands, they are standing for all of us to preserve the health and integrity of our soil and water across the "bread-basket" of this great country for generations to come.

Consider following the links below to read more about their cause and what they need from us to help their efforts.
